

ALICE

© Frank Jones

It's a long long way to Alice, and that's a fact
Across so many lines and folds and creases on the map
I drove all the way to Sydney once and I drove back home again
With empty arms and an empty tank I rolled down to the end

It's a long long way to Alice, or so they say
And even if you know the shortcuts there's no easy way
They sing songs about the rivers and the deserts you must cross
And it's thirsty work and hard and many have been lost

Leave early in the morning when the wind is at your back
Wave goodbye to the ones you love
And, swagman, hit the track

*They sing songs about the rivers and the deserts you must cross
And it's thirsty work and hard and many have been lost*

It's a long long way to Alice, but you've gotta try
You know you'd always kick yourself if you let this chance slip by
And it's just around the next bend, take courage and take care
It's a long long way to Alice, but you're almost there

Leave early in the morning when the sun is on your back
Wave goodbye to the ones you love
Wave goodbye to the ones you love
And, swagman, hit the track